

DONATE BLOOD AT A NEARBY POP-UP DONOR CENTER IN BELLINGHAM

The fall season will look different to us all – from being indoors more than we anticipated to how we spend the holidays. There is a lot that is unknown as we head into a new season. But there's one thing that we can do to help one another get through this – give blood. Bloodworks will continue to host Pop-Up Donor Centers around the Pacific Northwest through the end of the year and encourage all donors to find the nearest location, book an appointment, and keep it to ensure the strength our community needs during this time. This season of change depends on all of us giving hope – and blood – to each another.

“Just a note of thanks for your selflessness at this point in the world craziness. I recently needed seven pints for emergency actions to save my life. It wasn't for you I'd be dead today. Thank you for taking the time and caring enough about strangers me like me. Keep safe always.”

All donations are by appointment only. The one-hour donation appointment is a safe and essential action to support local hospitals and patients. The pop-up centers are being conducted following social distancing guidelines. No walk-ins, guests, or people under age 16 are permitted onsite. All donors are required to wear masks or face coverings during their appointment. Bloodworks has posted information addressing questions and concerns for blood donors at bloodworksnw.org/coronavirus.
